about

Mira T. Lee's debut novel, Everything Here is Beautiful, was selected as a Top 10 Debut by the American Booksellers Association, and named a Best Fiction title of 2018 by Amazon, O Magazine, Real Simple, and the Goodreads Readers Choice Awards. Her stories and essays have appeared in publications such as the New York Times, Tin House, Real Simple, the Southern Review, Missouri Review, and Harvard Review, among others, and have twice received special mention for the Pushcart Prize. She has also been the recipient of an Artist's Fellowship from the Massachusetts Cultural Council. Mira works as a graphic designer, and in her spare time is known as a pop-country drummer, a salsa dancing fanatic, and a biology graduate from Harvard University, and currently lives in Cambridge, MA.
